Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 25 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and frosty with wintry showers. Turning drier overnight.

Today:
Cold and frosty during the morning with wintry showers for western and northern areas. Lingering freezing fog may be slow to clear. Showers persists during the afternoon for the north, while cloud clears for the south to give brighter spells. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tonight:
A largely dry and cloudy night with wintry showers continuing for northern areas. A little sleet or wet snow is possible on high ground. Remaining cold, turning windy. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Tuesday:
After a dry start, a band of rain will arrive from the west accompanied with snow, sleet and ice especially over higher ground. Further wintry showers overnight. Remaining cold. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Generally dry and windy for Wednesday with some scattered showers. Further rain, locally heavy arrives overnight. Cloudy with outbreaks of rain for Thursday. Drier but with showers possible on Friday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.